To Whom It May Concern

The Bibliotheca Alexandrina believes that youth should think of ways and actions needed to secure their future on our planet, as they are the ones who will suffer most if they are not included in discussion and actions regarding the major environmental issues. For this, Bibliotheca Alexandrina supervises a number of activities directed toward capacity building for school students since 2002, of these activities, Youth for Environmental Sustainability and Better Understanding (YESBU) and League of Young Masters (LYM).

I am very pleased to recommend Ahmed Mahmoud Saeed Ahmed who joined Youth for Environmental sustainability and Better Understanding (YESBU) program started from May 2015, League of Young Masters (LYM) program in July 2015 at Bibliotheca Alexandrina, as a student attending the periodical weekly meetings and preparing different presentations in scientific and cultural topics through the programs.

Since he joined the programs, he was an active member, in September 2015 he was a coordinator for Future club in his school, one of the YESBU Program extensions in Alexandria Schools.

Also he was a general coordinator in Waste Segregation Invitation in Alexandria Governorate.

Here, I strongly recommend him in joining any program as he will be a good candidate for it. I wish him all the best in his endeavors.

Sincerely,

Salah A. Soliman

Professor of Pesticide Chemistry & Toxicology
